

Moving and Storage Pods Eliminate the Stress of Moving

When you need temporary storage while moving house, look no further than moving and storage pods. Your moving and storage needs can be taken care of simply by renting a moving and storage pod. It is as simple and as easy as that.

Pods have revolutionized the moving and storage industry. On moving day, you used to have to pick up your rental truck first thing in the morning, completely load, transport and unload all your possessions, then return the truck by closing time. You had to hope that a family member or friend had some space to allow you to store whatever you could not bring with you to your new home. All that has changed. Now you have moving and storage pods at your disposal.

Large, rectangularly shaped structures, moving and storage pods are constructed from high grade, aluminium coated plywood strong enough to withstand 100 mile per hour winds, rain, moisture, and mold. They can withstand the best efforts of Mother Nature and determined thieves. You can be secure in the safety of your belongings with a moving and storage pod. Not only is it constructed of theft resistant materials, but you keep the only key to the pod in your possession.

A huge advantage to renting a moving and storage pod is its ease and convenience. Moving and storage pods can be rented for as long as you need them, eliminating the need to load and unload all in one day. The moving and storage company delivers your pod right to your driveway, where it sits level with the ground, permitting you easy access. Think of how much wear and tear to your back that you will avoid with a moving and storage pod. No more lifting and straining to carry a fully packed box over a wobbly metal ramp onto a moving van. You can walk in and out of your moving and storage pod as though you were walking from room to room.

Once the pod is fully loaded, it is picked up by the moving and storage company and delivered to its new location. If your new home does not have enough room for all your belongings, or you have not decided whether you want to keep everything, the company will store the pod, with your belongings, at its facility for as long as you need. Tight security and climate control ensure the safety and protection of your possessions until you retrieve them. More information Moving - Pod storage - Packrat -

About the Author

More sites about self-storage, see this link.

Source: <http://comparenetprice.com>